During the war the corporation of New Orleans sold bonds to the citizens of Louisiana for the purpose of raising funds with which to fortify the city against the Federal forces, and, after General Butler captured the city he made several assessments amounting altogether to seventy-five per cent. of the gross amount for the benefit of poor people of the Department. Several petitions have been filed asking that the amount of those assessments may be refunded, but without success, and Robert J. Kerr, of New Orleans, has recently arrived at Washington, authorized by the interested parties to act as their agent in procuring its return. If he succeeds, General Butler will, in response to the demand of prominent Louisiana radicals, bring the whole matter before Congress.

Act to incorporate the Franklin Passenger Railway.

Act to incorporate the Western Pennsylvania Military Academy, near Pittsburgh.

The act incorporating the Kittanning and Rural Valley Railroad Company passed finally.

The report of the Senate Committee of Conference on the Appropriation bill was accepted.

THE RAILROAD BILL.

Mr. Bigham, of Allegheny, moved to proceed to the consideration of the genuine free railroad bill. Lost by the following vote:

Yeas—Messrs. Bigham, Brown, (Lawrence,) Brown, (Mercer,) Coleman, Cowles, Davis, Graham, Lowrey, Taylor, Wallace, White and Speaker Hall.

Nays—Messrs. Burnett, Connell, Donavan, Fisher, Glatz, Haines, James, Landon, McCandless, McConaughey, Randall, Ridgeway, Royer, Schall, Searight, Shoemaker, Stutzman, Walls, and Worthington.

So the free railroad bill fails for this session.

MR. GRAHAM FOR SPEAKER.

Senator Graham was unanimously nominated for Speaker in the Republican caucus.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The vote, defeating the act allowing the Erie and Allegheny Railroad to connect with the New York, and Erie, and Atlantic and Great Western, was reconsidered, and the bill passed finally.

A supplement to the act incorporating the Allegheny Valley Railroad, was passed.

The act relative to the assessment of taxes in the city of Pittsburgh, was negatived.

THE APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Conference Committee on the points of difference on the appropriation bill made a report, which, being read, was fiercely attacked by Mr. Boyle, of Fayette. He said that in the attempt to retrench, the Committee had stricken out the provisions for old soldiers and had increased salaries of officers, continued State agencies, and other appropriations, which should be dispensed with.

Mr. Waddell, of Chester, said that it was impossible for the Committee to agree upon any one point without concession. They had agreed to report rather than have an extra session.

A vote being taken, the report was negatived—ayes, forty-one; nays, forty-nine.

This result created great confusion, and after it had subsided the vote was reconsidered and the report recommitted.

APPROPRIATION BILL PASSED.

Mr. Waddell, chairman of the Conference Committee on the appropriation bill, reported that the Senate had no committee to meet with them, therefore he had to present the same report. It was then adopted by a vote of of fifty-nine to thirty-one.

SECRETARY SEWARD CONGRATULATED.

The Health of the President.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, April 10, 1867.

THE SPANISH ENLISTMENTS FOR MAXIMILIAN.

Havana advices have been received. The Republican Mexican Consul addressed a letter to the United States Consul, complaining of the violation of neutrality in Spanish enlistments for Maximilian. The subject was brought to the knowledge of the Captain General, who said he was not aware of it, and would see that the recruiting should cease. Notwithstanding this, the Spanish steamer Paris, and the English steamer Solent, took on board on the 25th and 26th recruits, and several sailing vessels since have been taking them, the total number of recruits which have left Havana being about two hundred. When Consul Minor was satisfied that, notwithstanding the assurances of General Mangle, four more vessels had went with recruits, he asked for affidavits of some enlisted persons and other documentary proof of that transaction, with a view of submitting an official complaint of it to the Spanish authorities in Cuba, and communicating the same to the Department at Washington.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ALBANY, April 10.—The Democratic State Convention met here to-day and temporarily organized by the choice of Hon. D. H. Ogden as temporary chairman. The Tammany delegation, from New York City, was admitted, to the exclusion of all others. Various committees were appointed and a recess taken.

Evening Session.—An address was adopted to electors of the State, claiming that the call for the convention, being based upon the Senatorial District representation, is calculated and intended to further only the ends of the Republican party. The address further arraigns the Republican form of administration, both in Federal and State politics, and that the State Constitution now restricting their movements and obstructing their designs, it is necessary to amend it for the furtherance of partizan measures. It appeals to the people to save the Constitution from threatened combination which perils representative principles and republican government, and calls upon the people to confide the duty of revising the Constitution to the conservative patriotic men of the democratic party.

Augustus Schell, George Law, H. C. Murphy, H. A. Nelson and D. L. Seymour are among the sixteen candidates nominated for delegates at large.

Adjourned.

SYRACUSE, April 10.—The Republican State Convention met to-day, Hon. John A. Griswold both temporary and permanent President.

It is said that negotiations between France and Holland for the cession of Luxemburg were proceeding favorably, when Count Bismark skillfully succeeded in suspending the bargain, by calling the attention of the Dutch Government to the existence of certain claims of the late Germanic Confederation upon the Ducal Government of Luxemburg, for unpaid federal contributions and for fortifications, and to the fact that Prussia, the legal successor of the Confederation, would consider any disposal of Luxemburg by Holland to a third party as an infraction of those claims. This protest had prevented any engagement with the French Government.

Confidence Betrayed.

A few days since a man giving his name as Thompson, and representing that he was an agent for the Grover & Baker sewing machine, went to the livery stable of L. D. Beall, in Uniontown, Fayette county, and hired a horse to go, as he stated, to Searight's, on the National road, about six miles from town. As he was to return on the same day, and not having since been heard of, it is concluded that he has stolen the horse. He is a man about fifty years of age, and previous to starting on his journey, he visited a barber shop, where his grey locks were subjected to the dyeing process, at the hands of "Professor" Murrin, after which he presented quite a youthful appearance. In conversation with the "Prof." he stated that he was from Zanesville, Ohio. Every exertion is made by the authorities of Fayette county to capture the venerable horse thief.

The Washington County Tragedy—Two of the Supposed Murderers in Custody—A Brace yet at Large—Names of the Suspected Parties.

Many of our readers are yet familiar with the murder of David Sproul, in Washington county, on the night of Monday, March 18th but for the benefit of those who did not read an account of the tragedy published just after its occurrence, we give the following resume of the principal incidents. About eight o'clock on the night mentioned, a man visited the house of Sproul, and asked him the way to the Railroad station. The latter very obligingly went with the stranger along the lane to a pair of bars near the barn, about fifteen rods from the house, to show him the way across the fields to the township road. When they had gone about ten rods, two others came round the corner of the house and followed after. When at the bars they knocked him down, and probably struck him when down, as there was a large pool of blood there, and a considerable quantity of hair sticking in the mud close by it. They then led him back to the house, one supporting him on each side. As he entered the door he was bleeding profusely about the face, and said to his maiden sister, (who is about fifty years of age, and the only person living with him,) "I am badly hurt." One of the villians then seized her by the arm, took her out of the house, and around it into the other house; took her up stairs and tied her hands behind her back; tied her feet together; laid her on the bed and strapped her tight to the bedstead; told her to tell where the money was or he would shoot her. She told him all she knew, and then he went to work ransacking. This one had his face blacked. He brought her out of the house as the others entered. She heard them beating her brother with the tongs. He halloed, and they said, "Give us your money, then." They continued to beat and cut him until life was extinct. They then went in search of money, but only found some $115 and two silver watches. Going back to the place of murder, they helped themselves to bread and cream, went to the spring and washed, then left, leaving the old woman tied up stairs, where she remained for twenty-four hours until a neighbor happened in and released her.

It was thought that traces which existed would lead to the almost immediate discovery and arrest of the murderers. A reward of $1,000 for their apprehension was offered. Several vigilant officers set diligently to work to find and follow up whatever clue might be possible. Their efforts failed for so long a time that people had begun to believe that no trace of the criminals would ever be found. There is a probability now that people were mistaken. Ever since the perpetration of the murder, Alderman Strain, of this city, and his police officers, Hague, Wilmot and Brown, have been working up the case, and it is to be hoped that it has progressed so far as to be ultimately successful. A visit was made to the scene of the murder, and every thing that could be found out about the appearance of the men, their doings, movements, &c., were diligently hunted up.

The full particulars of the visit of the three cattle dealers were obtained. These searches and inquiries, added to the known movements of certain well known characters, convinced the officers of justice that some of the miscreants of this city had a hand in the affair.

Investigation strengthened this suspicion until it amounted to almost a moral certainty, and an information was made before Alderman Strain, charging Samuel Eggleston, John Young, Thomas Whittaker and John Bird with the perpetration of the crime. Everything being arranged, a descent was made on Monday night on that well known resort, the "Irwin House," where it was expected to capture several, who, at least, had some knowledge of the transaction. Unfortunately the descent was a failure to a certain extent, as there were none of the parties arrested but Bird. On Tuesday, however, Whittaker was caught on Fifth street, near Wood, and committed to jail to await a hearing. While Bird was in the lock-up on Monday night, Alderman Strain held a conversation with him. During the conversation the prisoner showed signs of considerable alarm, and finally acknowledged that he knew something of the affair, but positively denied any participation in the crime. He says the whole thing was concocted in jail; that among the prisoners there was a man who knew Sproull and the vicinity where he resided, and who said that a good thing could be made there. After the release of the parties from jail, Bird says, the final arrangements were made at the Irwin House, and from here the party started to execute the plan. Bird says he did not go with them, but this declaration will do him but little good, if the rest of his statement turns out true. After the commission of the deed the villains kept away from the city until within a few days, and Eggleston and Young are still away, but their whereabouts is known. There is thought to be strong evidence aside from Bird's admission, that the prisoners are the right men. Active pursuit is being made after the other participants in the crime. John Bird, the first one arrested, is a well known Pittsburgh thief, and a graduate of the Penitentiary. The other, Thomas Whittaker, is a well known character and desperate man. During the war he was a noted and successful bounty jumper, and it is said was at one time sentenced to be shot.

Eggleston is also a notorious individual, having served two terms in the Penitentiary. He worked in this city for years, but makes his home in Washington county near the scene of the murder, and was consequently well known to the deceased. He, it is supposed, concocted the whole affair, being so conversant with the locality.

In this connection we might say that we were in possession of the main facts given above over a week ago, and had a full knowledge of the arrest of Bird and Whittaker on Tuesday, but through the solicitation of one of the officers engaged in working up the affair, we refrained from publishing it.

The Convention to Amend the National Constitution.

SECOND DAY.

The Convention met at nine o'clock, Wednesday morning. Dr. Guthrie being absent, Dr. John T. Pressly was called to preside. Rev. Dr. Edwards, of Jefferson College, offered a fervent and impressive prayer.

The Committee on Permanent Organization submitted the following report:

President—Jonathan Edwards, D. D.

Vice Presidents—Rev. J. T. Pressly and Rev. J. B. Lucas.

Secretary—Rev. A. M. Milligan.

The Committee on Resolutions reported, and their report was accepted. The resolutions are as follows:

WHEREAS, The people composing this nation, the common law—the Declaration of Independence—the Constitutions and laws of the several States, and in general the laws and practices of the General Government—are not only in consonance with, but also derive their glory from Christianity.

WHEREAS, There is not in the Constitution of the United States any express recognition of Jehovah, of his anointed king, the Lord Jesus Christ, or of his revealed will as exercising any authority in, or receiving any honor from the nation; and,

WHEREAS, The Constitution professes to be the ordinance of the people, and should therefore, reflect their sentiments; therefore,

Resolved, 1. That it is the mind of this Convention that the amendments ought to be made; first, because they state facts which are as incontrovertible as they are solemn; second, because they truly express what, if properly understood, is the firm conviction of the overwhelming majority of this people.

2. That in this proposed amendment there is implied no disrespect to the Constitution nor any lack of loyalty to the government, since other amendments, as well as this, are shown by the events of the war to be timely and necessary; since even a defective government may still be a valid government, and since whatever may be the defects of the American Constitution, we glory in it and boast of it as the wisest and best Constitution ever framed by a nation.

3. That this proposed amendment does not tend nor look toward any union of Church and State, nor does it involve any principle which in any development or any application recognizes such union as either profitable, useful, or even endurable.

4. That it becomes American citizens to be true to their religious convictions, and manly in asserting them, and this proposed amendment furnishes a just occasion for them to be so.

5. That in the judgment of this Convention, the times in which we live indicate it as perilous to all public interests, and dishonoring to our very civilization, that our National Constitution should continue to ignore God and His Christ. Our rulers and judges should be wise on this point. They should be instructed that according to the teachings of the second Psalm, it is both heathenish and ruinous.

6. That it is proper that a local association be organized in this city, auxiliary to the aims of the National Association, and so far as practicable under the same constitution, with an Executive Committee, charged not only to communicate and co-operate with the National Association, but also to form branch associations in all the neighboring region.

The resolutions were considered separate, and the first, second and third amended and adopted. We report them as amended. The consideration of the remainder was postponed until the afternoon session.

A committee, consisting of Revs. J. L. M'Cartney, R. D. Sproull, and J. E. Caruthers, was appointed to procure speakers for the evening.

The Late Railroad Investigation—Testimony of the Coroner's Witnesses.

Yesterday afternoon the jury empannelled by Coroner Clawson to enquire into the cause of the death of Martin L. Bracken, who is said to have died from injuries received by the accident on the Pennsylvania Railroad on Sunday last, assembled at the Mayor's office and heard the following testimony:

Dr. W. R. Hamilton, sworn—Was called on professionally, on Sunday, about two o'clock, to attend M. L. Bracken; found him in a car about one-half mile beyond Turtle Creek; he had a comminuted fracture of the left thigh, a fracture of the pelvis, a rupture of the bowels; these were all the serious injuries; in my opinion they were mortal; saw deceased after death at No. 58 Walnut street; they told me he died about three o'clock Monday morning; the injuries just described produced death.

Wm. B. Story, sworn—Am conductor of the Cincinnati Express on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad; my train left the city at 11 o'clock A. M., on Sunday, the 7th instant; the train consisted of two baggage, one express, one sleeping and three passenger cars; we had the usual number of brakemen; Bracken, the deceased, was brakeman on the front car. The first intimation I had that anything was wrong, was when the engineer whistled "down brakes;" this was about one-half mile east of Turtle Creek; soon after I felt a shock; from the time the alarm was sounded until I felt the shock, the brakemen had not time to put down the brakes; we were running at the rate of about thirty miles an hour. Soon after the shock I saw the front car go off the track, and immediately thereafter it was followed by the one I was on—the second car. I saw the deceased step from the front car to the platform of the second car; he seemed to be reaching for the door knob; just then the platform of the second car ran over the front car, catching the deceased between them. I then went forward to the front end of the car, as soon as the train ceased to move, and saw that he was caught fast. I tried to get the door open, to get to him, but the car being "slewed" around, I was unable to open the door; I then went out of the rear door in search of an axe; did not succeed in finding one; in about thirty-five or forty minutes an axe was procured, and the wounded man was released. I did not see the obstructions on the track. After the accident, I saw what seemed to have been a keg of railroad spikes, the keg having been cut in two; did not see any of the ties which they said had been placed on the track; there were a great many loose ties lying along on both sides of the track, and from the appearance of the tools near that point, I think some laborers had been at work.

John Mathews, sworn.—Was fireman on the locomotive of the train which met with the accident; I first noticed a man near the track after hearing the alarm of "down brakes;" just then Peter McCauley, an engineer on the road, who was sitting on my seat, jumped down; I then knew that something was wrong; I first saw the obstructions when we were about twenty feet from them; there were four ties on the track, lying lengthwise, and a crow bar lying across the track. The man, when I first saw him, was on the track, with his face toward the engine; when I next saw him he was over in the field; he was in his shirt sleeves, and I at once recognized him as the same man. As soon as I got off the train I went over in the field where the man was; saw no one else in the immediate neighborhood except two men about a half a mile back, who looked like persons who lived in the neighborhood. I do not think I would be able to recognize the man again; I think he had on a barred shirt; I was very much excited; was not nearer to him than thirty yards. (At this point the prisoner, Patrick Monahan, was brought in. The witness was unable to identify him.)

William Brown, sworn—Was a passenger on the train; was going to my home near Carpenter's Station, Westmoreland county; am an employee on the road. Was sitting on a seat in the front part of the front passenger car; felt the shock; put my head out at the window and saw that the cars were off the track; I saw no one near the train except that man, (pointing to the prisoner); when I first saw him he was sitting on the left hand side of the road, going east, about thirty steps from the track; when we approached him he began to get up; when asked why he had placed the obstructions on the track his only reply was, "I don't know." One man could lift the tie without difficulty. The last train preceeding the one which met with the accident, passed that point at about nine o'clock; the accident occurred at about twenty minutes before twelve o'clock.

John Johnson, sworn—Live at Turtle creek; my father is a coal miner; I was standing on the porch of our house when I first knew of the accident; did not know of the accident, or see the train, until it was off the track. About five minutes before the train came along, I saw the prisoner coming from the railroad track; he was on the island, and sat on a log for about a minute, after which he went into the water and hid under the bank; at this time there were three men passing along, about half way between our house and where the train struck; they were going towards the train.

Jas. Creighton, sworn—Am General Agent and Assistant Superintendent of the Pennsylvania road; heard the testimony of a former witness in regard to the time the Church train passed the point where the accident occurred; believe it is correct. I was at the scene of the late accident yesterday; was shown these new ties which had not been in use; they were all split up, indicating that they had been on the track; one man could easily lift one of these ties.

John Stone, sworn—I am a puddler and reside in Johnstown; was on the train as a passenger; I arrested the prisoner. [Diagram of the ground here shown witness.] Found him at a point about forty rods north of the wrecked train; he was in the act of putting on his coat; I struck him, when he threw up both hands and said, "O, don't;" when I seized him he pulled back as if he did not want to go; I asked him several questions, to all of which he replied, "I don't know;" took him to Turtle Creek village, procured a conveyance, and with the assistance of another young man brought him to the city; the prisoner here present is the man I arrested. While we were coming to the city he made one effort to rise up as if to escape.

David Frederick, sworn—Live about a quarter of a mile beyond Turtle Creek station; at the time of the accident I was standing on the creek bank about six hundred yards from where it occurred; a man whose name, I think, is Burke, was talking to me at the time; my father was also near by; I noticed the prisoner going up the track, toward the east, about twenty-five minutes before the accident occurred; the next time I saw him was after the train was wrecked; he was then a prisoner; there were three men passed down the track about the same time the prisoner went up; one of them carrying a black oil-cloth traveling bag; two of the men were together, and the other was a short distance behind them; they were all strangers to me. After I saw what had occurred, my father, Burke and myself all went up.

George Frederick, sworn—Am in the employ of the Pennsylvania road at Brinton's; was over the track about three quarters of an hour before the accident; at this time there were no obstructions on the track; as I came down the track I saw the prisoner going up towards where the accident occurred; he looked over his shoulder at me, but said nothing. My son David was sitting up on the bank; I asked him if he saw that "Johnny" passing up the road. This was about twenty-five minutes before the train came along.

The testimony here closed for the present, the jury agreeing upon an adjournment until Wednesday, the seventeenth instant, at seven o'clock P. M., when the investigation will be resumed at the same place.

Found Drowned.

Coroner Clawson yesterday received a dispatch from McKeesport stating that the body of a man had been found floating in the Monongahela river a short distance above that place. The Coroner promptly started for McKeesport, where he held an inquest on the remains. The body was identified by witnesses as that of Henry Alton, who, with his father, was drowned in the river on the 21st of February, at Stone's Upper Coal Works, in Elizabeth township, eighteen miles from the city. It will be remembered that the elder Mr. Alton and his son, in company with three other men, were about crossing the river to the south side. The current was very rapid, and one of the parties in the skiff caught hold of the ice breaker at the coal works, which extends some distance into the river, to prevent the boat from drifting. This caused the skiff to capsize, and the occupants were thrown into the water. Mr. Alton and his son were drowned, but the others succeeded in swimming ashore. The remains of the unfortunate young man were not recovered until Tuesday. The jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning. The deceased was a young man of some twenty years, and leaves a wife and children.

Aid for the South.

Rev. Dr. Trecy, of Huntsville, Ala., the eloquent and earnest Southern chaplain in the Union army, under Gen. Rosecrans, has been in our midst several weeks collecting aid from the catholics of this vicinity to repair the injuries sustained in his State by the late war. We cheerfully publish the following card of thanks, from which it appears he has been thus far quite successful in his labors:

The undersigned, in the name of his Bishop, Rt. Rev. Dr. Quinlan, and his suffering people in North Alabama, take this means of returning thanks to the Rt. Rev. Bishop Domenec, the pastors, and the people of the various congregations in and around the city of Pittsburgh, for their generous response in rendering aid to repair the many injuries that country sustained during the late disastrous war.

J. F. TRECY,
Huntsville, Ala.

Amusements.

Ristori made her third and last appearance in this city last night as Lady Macbeth to a large audience, though the auditorium was, by no means, crowded, neither was the assemblage as fashionable as on the preceding [illegible]. In seeing her in "Elizabeth Stuart" we labored under the disadvantage [illegible] ance to con[illegible] having no former performance, therefore, fore[illegible] her's, and we were ideal the historian [illegible] of her from the given us of those two [illegible]. This was not the case [illegible] dramatist has scores of precedents, among [illegible] women, many whose fame as histrionic [illegible] We had will long outlive the present generation were we must confess that we saw beauties character last night we never saw before. There is a part in the whole range of the drama allowing Ristori an opportunity to display her peculiar talent, that part is the one she gave last night. From her entree in the first act until her final exit, she seemed the very embodiment of the wicked, ambitious woman goading on a weak and vacillating wretch from crime to crime until the very weight of his stupendous guilt crushed him.

In the scene where, as a somnambulist, she wanders through the castle, rehearsing to herself the terrible deeds she was forced to enact ere she reached the coronet of monarchy, she even excelled all her previous efforts, seeming to act from inspiration and holding her auditors spell-bound by the magic of her genius until she disappeared from their gaze. The rest of the cast with the exceptions of Macduff and Malcomb were very tame, and from the manner in which the prompter was bellowing, we are led to believe that a great many of them did not known a single word of the text, only as it was given them from the wing. This was out of all taste and should not be tolerated. An actor has no excuse for being remiss in his lines when he has months to study a single length.

The gentleman who essayed Macbeth was particularly bad, from beginning to end, his death scene being one of the drollest affairs we have witnessed for a long time.

To-night the favorite actor J. M. Cook is up for a benefit at this house, and as he offers an immense bill, we have not a doubt but the house will be crowded. Mr. Cook is not a great actor, but he is a good one, playing acceptably everything he undertakes, and is deserving of a hearty recognition from the public, for whose entertainment he has labored so long.

"The Wept-of-the-Wish-ton-Wish," with Cherry Bell in the leading character, and a grand olio performance, forms the bill of attraction to-night at the Varieties Theatre, Penn street.

On Tuesday evening next, Root's operatic cantata, entitled "The Haymakers," will be given in costume, at the Academy of Music, under the direction of Mrs. Earnest. There will be a rehearsal at the Academy of Music, this evening, when the performers are expected to be present.

Meeting of the Citizens of the Ninth Ward—Preparations to Organize a Steam Fire Engine Company.

In pursuance of a call a large meeting of the citizens of the Ninth ward and Independence Fire Company, was held in Independence Hall, for the purpose of making arrangements for the purchase of a steam fire engine. On motion, Mr. W. R. Ford was called to the chair, and J. Boose appointed Secretary. After the preliminary remarks of the President, the following preamble and resolutions were offered by Mr. J. C. McKelvy.

WHEREAS, The frequency of fires in this end of the city, and the great losses thereby, the number and magnitude of the manufacturers, with a capital of millions, the rapid growth in valuable buildings for manufacturing and other purposes, and the great distance from assistance in event of fire, render it absolutely necessary that some means should be taken for the protection of our property; therefore,

Resolved, That immediate measures be taken for procuring a steam fire engine for the Ninth ward.

Resolved, That block committees be appointed to call upon the citizens and solicit subscriptions; the said committees to appoint a sub-committee of five to take charge of the funds collected, and make all necessary arrangements for the purchase of a steam fire engine.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

The ward was divided into blocks, and a committee in each appointed. The greatest harmony and interest prevailed, and the opinions of the prominent citizens present were expressed in an earnest manner. All seemed imbued with the necessity of protection from fire, and determined to do their utmost to procure an engine. The meeting adjourned to meet on Monday evening, 22d inst., to receive the reports of the block committees.

Malicious Mischief.

George Burnside, the proprietor of a livery stable in Allegheny city, appeared before Alderman Mullen yesterday, and preferred a charge of malicious mischief against John Kennedy. The latter being anxious to enjoy the Ristori performance, by surrounding himself with all the business of "Snobogarchy," hired a magnificent barouche and a pair of horses from the prosecutor, which he promised to return before midnight. The night was spent in hilarity and mirth, and it was not until Tuesday evening that the team was returned and that by a strange man, who graciously informed Burnside that the vehicle had been given him by Kennedy, to bring back, for which trouble he received the slight remuneration of twenty-five cents. On examination it was discovered that one of the springs of the barouche was broken, while three spokes of the right front wheel were mashed. Burnside immediately repaired to the office of the magistrate, and made oath as stated. Kennedy was subsequently arrested, but after a hearing, the matter was amicably adjusted by the defendant paying the costs.

An Eminent Physician.

No practising physician among the most eminent in the State of Pennsylvania stands higher or has been more successful in the profession than L. Oldshue, M. D., No. 132 Grant street, Pittsburgh. Having had years of experience as an active practitioner, he has won for himself a very enviable reputation in the treatment of many of the most difficult cases in the calender of human ills. His treatment differs somewhat from the regular, or old style of practice, and has given the utmost satisfaction to all who have been under his careful and attentive method of treating patients by the old German mode, which has stood the test successfully for more than twenty-five years. Dr. Oldshue is not one of your calomel, mercury, blood letting physicians, but believes in the use of vegetable remedies—carefully prepared under his own supervision—as the safest and most reliable medicines in almost any case.

He treats all kinds of diseases. His study and knowledge of the Uroscopia System, enables him to treat cases from a distance, by an examination of their urine. He has in this respect been more successful than any physician within our knowledge.

His office and residence is at No. 132 Grant street, Pittsburgh.—Quarterly Advertiser.

Undertaking.

When a near and dear relative or friend departs this life, it is an object of no little importance that the inanimate clay be buried quietly and mournfully without the confusion, bustle and disorder which generally attend illy conducted funerals. Here in Pittsburgh we have a number of bungling undertakers and a few really worthy ones. Among the latter none stand higher in the estimation of the community, or those who have attended the paying of the last sad tribute of respect to friends departed, where he has officiated, than Mr. Alex Aiken, No. 166 Fourth street. He has had long experience in the mournful business and conducts funerals in a dignified manner, attending to all the details. Any of our readers who may have to call in the services of an undertaker will do well to favor Mr. Aiken with a call. He keeps a large assortment of plain and rich coffins and metallic burial cases, together with crape, gloves &c., and attends to the ordering of carriages and general details attendant upon burials.

A Hearing and What Came of it.

Robert Fowler, who was shot a few nights since by officer Dressler, while attempting to evade arrest, had a hearing yesterday before Mayor McCarthy, on a charge of assault and battery. In the course of the hearing a woman named Ida Howard, who resides at Mrs. Johnston's, a house of ill fame, on Pennsylvania Avenue, testified that Fowler had committed a rape on her person, on Friday night last, using abuse to accomplish his purpose. This put a new phase on affairs and the accused was accordingly locked up in default of $3,000 bail.

"The Physical Geography of the Pacific States" is the title of Professor Brewer's lecture before the Young Mens' Christian Association, at Masonic Hall, on Thursday evening, April 11th. Prof. Brewer has given this subject more time and study than any of the eminent men who have discussed it. The same gentleman will lecture on Friday evening—subject, "The Mountain Scenery of California." Those who attend may expect a treat not often enjoyed. Lecture free to members of the Association, who will find tickets at the rooms of the Association, No. 23 Fifth street. To all others, tickets 50 cents, to be optained at book and music stores, and of members of the Association.

Committed.—Anna Foley appeared before Mayor McCarthy, yesterday, and lodged an information against Babby McDonald for assault and battery. Babby was arrested, but her exchequer being too shallow to furnish bail in the required amount, she was jailed for a hearing.

Another Outrage.

A woman giving her name as Anestasia Burns appeared before Justice Barker, yesterday, and made oath against Jno. J. Montgomery for assault and battery with intent to commit a rape. The prosecutrix states that she was walking along the Brownsville Pike, on Tuesday evening, near Boydtown, when Montgomery met her and asked where she was going. She informed him that she was on her way to a store in Birmingham, where she proposed purchasing some buckwheat. They fell into conversation which was continued harmoniously for almost a mile, when Montgomery insulted her by an indecent proposal. She retorted angrily, and was about to run away, when Montgomery caught her by the arm and dragged her into a field, where he attempted to outrage [illegible] person. She struggled desperately, and [illegible] succeeded in freeing herself from his [illegible] escaping into the house of a lady [illegible] township named Richards. A warrant has [illegible] the arrest of the accused, [illegible] Deacer, residing in Baldwin [illegible]

We [illegible] on called upon to chronicle her death, [illegible] took place at the Mercy hospital [illegible] Eighth ward yesterday. During the time that intervened from the day she took the poison until yesterday she suffered the most acute pain, inflamation having set in almost immediately after the mistake occurred. Dr. Donnelly, who waited upon her to the last, states that she has no friends in this country whatever, being a native of Ireland which country she left but a few months since.

Snooks says Italian acting is good but expensive. He took his lady-love to hear Ristori and exhibits the following table of expenses incurred by so doing: Carriage, $7; tickets, $10; librettos, $1; lorgnettes, $1; boquets, $5; white kid gloves, $2; paid driver, $1; white neck tie, $1; hair dressing and incidental expenses, $3; total bill of costs, $31,00. Consequently Snooks is strapped and can't say anything funny about Ristori. Out of sheer vengeance he has been getting square with the Italian race by upsetting peanut stands.

Struck With a Stick.—Philip Wray came to the office of Alderman Mullen, yesterday, and lodged an information against Samuel Jacobs for assault and battery. The parties reside in Reserve township, where, on Tuesday last, the prosecutor alleges that Jacobs struck him with an oak stick on the back, injuring him so much that he was forced to remain in bed for twenty-four hours after the attack, being unable to raise from the effects of the blow. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of the accused.

Notary Public.—We direct the attention of our readers to the card in another column of Thomas Simpson, Esq., Notary Public and Real Estate Agent, No. 309 Penn street. Mr. Simpson attends faithfully to all business entrusted to him, and is possessed with ample facilities for proving highly advantageous to those who employ his services. We cordially commend him to the attention of our readers who may have any transactions in real estate or who may need the services of a Notary Public.

Connubial Woes.—Rachel L. Graham does not live in that harmony with her husband John that lovers of hymen would have us believe is universal in the marriage state. They have, like Anthony and Cleopatra, indulged in many little bickerings. In the midst of one, John quit their home and has not since returned. Yesterday Rachel appeared before Mayor McCarthy, and made oath against her absent lord for desertion. A warrant has been issued.

Splendid Photograph.—We have been favored with a vignette card photograph of the late great, good and talented Rev. E. D. McMaster, D. D., LL. D. It is a faithful likeness of the distinguished clergyman, and should be in the possession of every one who admired him in life. It is a specimen of B. L. H. Dabb's photographic art, and sustains the high reputation which that gallery enjoys. Copies may be obtained at Mr. Dabb's rooms, No. 26 St. Clair street.

The Wheeling Intelligencer wants to know how Ristori could have a clean face here. Simply by washing it. She has received enough of "soft soap" in her journey through this country for all ordinary ablutions. The same paper congratulates Ristori on achieving a success in Pittsburgh, after passing the gauntlet in Paris, London and New York. We agree. For neither people nor press here play second fiddle to any in the world.

New Auction House.—Messrs. J. W. Breen & Co., popular dealers, have just opened a new auction house at No. 110 Smithfield street. They intend conducting the business upon a regular system and will hold public sales, day and evening, on Saturdays, Thursdays and Tuesdays, and will devote the other week days and evenings to private sales. See the advertisement. We commend the firm to the attention of our readers.

Rev. Alex. Clark, A. M., will deliver his splendid lecture on "Individuality" in the First Methodist Church, (East Commons,) Allegheny city, this evening, for the benefit of Rebecca street Mission. Everybody should go and hear it. Both the lecture and the object are worthy. Doors open at 7:15 o'clock. Lecture commence at 8. Admission 25 cents. Tickets sold at the door, also at the book stores on Federal street.

Run Over.—Robert Long, a carter in the employ of William Weyman, tobacconist, fell off his cart yesterday, at the corner of Wood and Water streets. Before he could make an effort to rise one of the wheels passed over his breast, injuring him so severely that there is some doubt of his recovery. He was taken to the American Hotel, on Pennsylvania Avenue, where he now lies.

James T. Brady & Co., dealers in government securities, corner of Fourth and Wood streets, quote the Pennsylvania loan to-day as follows:

George R. Cochran, Esq., attorney at law, publishes his card in another column, having opened an office for the transaction of legal business at No. 60 Grant street. Mr. Cochran will faithfully and promptly attend to all legal business or writing entrusted to his care, and from acquaintance we are enabled to sincerely commend him to the community of large.

Larceny by Bailee.—J. L. Beck came to the office of Alderman Strain, yesterday, and made oath against Charles Ross for larceny by bailee. The deponent alleges that he gave Ross thirty-five dollars to keep for him, which he did so well that Beck, when he called for it, failed to get it. A warrant has been issued.

Surety of the Peace.—Patrick Roach was before Alderman H. J. Thomas yesterday, on complaint of William Rees, who swore that Pat threatened to split his head open with a spade and made divers other threats. Defendant was held to bail.

Larceny.—Henry Dunmore was committed to jail yesterday, by Mayor McCarthy, on a charge of larceny, preferred against him by William L. Brown. The accused is said to have stolen a cloak from the prosecutor, valued at $15.

Held for a Hearing.—Henry Blackley was before Alderman Strain yesterday, charged with assault and battery, on oath of Harry Williams. The accused was arrested and held for a hearing.

THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1867.

THE ADJOURNMENT.

This day the Legislature will give thoughtful people of this Commonwealth, without regard to party lines, more contentment than on any other of the protracted session. It will adjourn finally, and its members depart for their [illegible] homes.

respec[illegible] [illegible]th the Senate and Intellectually [illegible] are decidedly House of Representatives [illegible]atively few inferior. There are compa[illegible] [illegible]bilities. men in either of even average [illegible]se This is bad enough in itself, but the c[illegible] is presented in a still more unfavorable light when the fact is stated, that, with only two or three exceptions, the members of the largest mental capacities have employed them in the worst conceivable manner. Even below this, there is a yet profounder depth. The members who are known at home as most scrupulous concerning their personal integrity, have generally proved altogether the most untrustworthy, and least circumspect about soiling their reputations. They have evidently presumed upon their social standing to do things which others, who were conscious of being open to suspicion, felt constrained to omit or to cover up so as to defy detection.

This Legislature had a fine opportunity for public usefulness, which it signally failed to improve. Party commitments and individual promises were esteemed by members lighter than vanity. Indeed, it looked as if some of them were solicitous to show they contemned all the obligations which honorable men are careful to respect and cherish. Havi[illegible] succeeded in doing this in the [illegible]ure, fectual manner, by a contradi[illegible]day car inheres in a good deal of [illegible] of sanctity they took occasion entertaining had question, to ma[illegible] so far as to inspire that would member exalted his zeal it not [illegible]tional observance of Sunday dis[illegible] pitch it was difficult to decide [illegible]ther to rank his speech with the ravings of profanity or the drivelings of idiotcy. It was either a display of sanctimony run wild, or of hypocrisy trying to see how grotesque a mask it could wear—and so extravagant was it a sober man was puzzled to determine which.

The Republican party is chiefly, though not exclusively, responsible for this disgrace. It has strong majorities in each of the Houses. It will be held accountable by the people, and ought to be, or else there is no meaning in the phrase, "popular institutions." How many such Legislatures that party can elect and still maintain the ascendancy is a problem some individuals are inclined to solve practically; but we think an immense majority of the organization are content not to proceed any farther. It is rank duplicity to affirm this condition of affairs must be tolerated through fear that injury will be done to some national issue of absorbing interest and importance. Nothing but unmixed evil ever has or will result from putting into official positions men who combine imbecility of mind with lack of personal integrity. The misconduct of legislative assemblies is undermining confidence in popular government, and a radical reform must be had or the people will be constrained to fly to monarchy as a relief from intolerable abuses.

Nor are the democratic members of the Legislature, in proportion to members, less culpable than the republican ones. They are neither men of superior average mental endowments nor of higher moral tone. They have proved equally as false to the professions of their party, and to their personal engagements, as the republicans. The only difference is that they are in lean minorities, and so incur smaller measures of responsibility. The indications all warrant the inference that if they had the control they would do quite as bad as the republicans have done.

Two remedial instrumentalities are in the hands of the constituencies. 1. They must take more care as to who are selected as legislative candidates. This is particularly important to be done by members of the dominant party, especially in localities where the majority is large. In such cases the contest really ends with the action of the Nominating Convention. A good many men seek promotion under such circumstances who would not venture if the district was close. Powerful majorities have their uses, and hence parties delight in them, but they have their perils. Heavy majorities result, as a rule, in poorer representatives. 2. The State Constitution must be so amended as to take the whole matter of corporate franchises from under the jurisdiction of the General Assembly. Such an adjustment would remove the carcasses on which the birds of prey fatten. But a Convention will not be called as long as the plunderers can prevent it. There must be such a demand for it by the people as shall compel compliance.

If neither of these agencies shall be thoroughly worked, affairs will go from bad to worse until the stench of Legislative corruption shall fill the commonwealth to such a degree as to be insupportable.

"For some wise purpose the Creator of all men has chosen to set his seal upon the negro race, distinguishing them, as a people in the most marked and unmistakable manner, from all other races. It is folly to seek by false reasoning or blustering words, however eloquent, to hide this grand distinction which Providence has made, not as an ephemeral thing, but permanent, unalterable."—Post.

What an air of novelty and wisdom is here! Reflect a moment upon these several astonishing propositions! 1. There is a "Creator of all men;" 2. That the said Creator had "some wise purpose;" 3. That he "set a seal upon the negro race;" 4. That this seal is so "marked and unmistakable," that by means of it a negro can be told from a white man; 5. That this "distinction" is not "ephemeral," but is likely to last forever.

All this stands to reason. A black man does differ from a white one. But, then, it must follow that a white man differs from a black one. It is marvellous our neighbor did not find that out before. The idea of race implies a fixed and determined difference. How this variation came except by will of the Creator it would be hard to say. Indeed, an old book, more talked about than studied in these later days, intimates that "God made of one blood all the races of men." How black and white men can be made of "one blood," so as to embody actual unity in apparent diversity, is a point deserving of consideration. Will the Post expound?

We are indebted to Hon. Thomas Williams for a bound set of the Congressional Globe, for 1865–66.

Telegrams from Europe continue to fear as to the maintenance of peace. France has recently been forced to submit to so many humilications, that the national pride is seriously touched in the matter of Luxembourg. Of course, that Province, so far as relates to frontier, is no more essential to the security and repose of France now, than it has been all along. But the aggrandizement of Prussia has made an increase of territory and population indispensable to France unless she is prepared henceforward to play a subordinate part in the affairs of Europe; such a part as Prussia has commonly played until within the past few months. This is the real motive of the pressure for rectification of boundaries in the low countries.

But it is not easy to see, in view of the [illegible] lately published, how Prussia treaties [illegible]h Luxembourg without ex- can relinqu[illegible] of degradation. She periencing a sense [illegible]tress command- has possession of the for[illegible] of great ing the Province, which is ou[illegible] and strength, and has what she regards, with reason, as a prior and better title than that of the French.

It seems probable that if a war should break out it will become general; many schemes, ardently cherished, have been postponed until suitable complications should ensue. In the new condition of affairs hopes are excited that they may now be carried into execution. A continental struggle, however, is a matter of weighty import. United combinati[illegible] can and principles would now co[illegible]certain- play, the power and effect [illegible]cy, and then only be conjectured; [illegible] for a time, of the ty may occasion fi[illegible] diplomatic ad[illegible] prevailin[illegible] by the census, there were black people living in Pennsylva[illegible] Probably, the number has been increased to 80,000. Philadelphia has a larger number than any other county, that is 28,000. They support seventeen churches, worth $225,000, with a membership of 5,440, and 1,700 Sunday-school scholars. They have twelve or fifteen free schools, with a daily average attendance of 2,200. There are thirty-four negroes in the city whose combined wealth amounts to one million three hundred and fifty-eight thousand dollars. The richest man is Stephen Smith, a lumber merchant. He owns seventy-five houses in fee simple, and is worth not less than three hundred thousand dollars. Harris Lindsay, a bounty broker during the war, is worth two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Five artists and a number of excellent musicians receive distinguished mention. Among the latter is the "Black Swan."

Mr. Sumner, a few days ago, made a motion to expel Mr. Saulsbury from the Senate. A correspondent tells how this movement was received by its miserable subject:

"During the Executive session Saulsbury, who had become very drunk, came over towards Sumner, and assumed a threatening attitude, gesticulating and announcing his intention of having satisfaction out of Sumner for introducing the resolution for his expulsion. The Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms promptly interfered, and with the assistance of one of the Senators, got him into the coat-room, where, after nearly divesting himself of his clothing, he lay down upon the floor and remained until the close of the session, when the Doorkeeper took him home."

Senator Lowry, of Erie, in one of his late speeches, declared a certain measure must be supported, "if it takes the last dollar and the last stitch of clothing from our children." A wag remarked, the "last dollar" is a hackneyed phrase, but the idea of allowing the children to run about in a state of nature is purely original. The Senator should, at least, have mentioned an age limit at which children might be clothed.

The Russian Treaty has been confirmed. When it was presented to the Senate, a decided majority were manifestly opposed both to the price demanded, and to the acquisition itself. It is fair to presume the change in opinion was the result of full and careful investigation, particularly as the minority was only seven. But the public would like to know what produced the change.

A notorious pickpocket and thief of Memphis was recently forced to parade the streets of that city with a placard on his back informing the world at large of his nefarious vocation. He has entered suit against the Police Commissioners for ten thousand dollars damages, alleged to have been sustained by the disgraceful part he had to play in atonement for his evil deeds.

Real Estate never commanded, in Philadelphia, the fancy figures at which it has been, and is now, held in Pittsburgh, but the prices there have toppled and a rapid decline has set in. This is as we have anticipated, and it will indeed prove singular if prices here do not come down to a reasonable point 'ere many months pass away.

The resumption of operations by the iron masters of Wheeling will in no wise improve the chances of the strikers here, as the union of mill owners have determined to hold out till the last ditch is reached. The resumption in Wheeling is made conditional, we believe, subject to the result ultimately reached here.

The Drew Theological Institute at Carmel, New Jersey, is now opened to colored persons as well as to white. In European Seminaries of learning no distinction of color is made, and quite a number of "American gentlemen and ladies, of African descent," have received training in them.

The many friends and admirers of Thad. Stevens will be pleased to learn that he is rapidly recovering from his late physical prostration. He has passed his seventy-fifth birth day, and may live another decade of years.

The surrounding cities are making provisions against the expected approach of the cholera during the coming summer. No movement has, as yet, been made in this neighborhood to improve its sanitary condition.

In the recent municipal election at Louisville, Phillip Tomppert was re-elected by a handsome majority. He was the Radical candidate.

Hon. James. L. Graham will probably be the choice of the State Senate for its presiding officer.

—The New Orleans Picayune, in an article on negro suffrage, says with great force: "It is ridiculous for any one to pretend that he is lowered or disgraced by going to the polls with a negro, when he crowds in at the general delivery with him to get a letter at the postoffice."

In Belgium, where every post office has its telegraph wire, a message is sent to any part of the kingdom for ten cents. In Switzerland, under the same system, both messages and money orders can be sent at very low rates, and people send more money than letters.

The Russian Treaty.

Washington, April 8.—Admiral Fox, on his return from his visit to Russia, told a friend in this city that Prince Gortschakoff had said to him in St. Petersburg that the territory which Russia owned in America was not only valueless to his Government, but was an expense and trouble which the Czar would gladly be rid of, and assured him that Russia would be willing to cede the territory to the United States as a gift if it were desirable to the Republic. That is certain. It is equally certain that Secretary Seward knew of the fact. Unfortunately for our Treasury and our tax-payers, there is no diplomatic glory to be got out of accepting a gift. To make a reputation out of an acquisition of territory ready to be handed over to us as a sheer measure of relief to the Russian exchequer, Mr. Seward had to negotiate for it, throw away $10,000,000 for it, mysteriously wrap up the transaction in a secret treaty, and suddenly appear in the Senate, after the expiration of the regular session of Congress, and urge the immediate approval of the treaty on the grounds, First, That the region to be acquired was relatively as valuable to Russia as Ireland is to England; that in climate and the natural wealth of timber, grain, lands, fur-bearing animals, and fisheries, and probably coal, and gold, and silver, it was enormously valuable. Second, That if we did not immediately take it, we should lose the opportunity, and it would become the property of some other nation. Third, That the treaty must be ratified within ninety days or fail, and that, if it failed, every government in Europe would exult over its miscarriage, [illegible] our friendly relations with the pow[illegible] [illegible] Empire would be imperiled [illegible] ful Russ[illegible] [illegible]ion to which we had su[illegible] of the mortifica[illegible] world. There[illegible]etary it throughout the [illegible] tors who wish that we had [illegible]shed for official responsibility by w[illegible] of his own of State could be su[illegible]ness, using the secretly and unadvi[illegible] the Government reckless folly and [illegible] to such a [illegible] as he is diplomatic mag[illegible]enate to get it out of. to get the [illegible] Senators who laugh at the now be[illegible]resentation of the necessity There[illegible] action and, indeed, of any action, Sec[illegible]ow that the Czar does not care a [illegible] whether the treaty is ratified or not, [illegible] that the whole scheme has been cooked up between Mr. Seward and the Russian Minister, for reasons purely personal to each.—Telegram to the New York Tribune.

Victor Hugo, on sending in his subscription to the fund for a statue to Voltaire, says, characteristically: "Voltaire is an avant courier. Flambeau-bearer of the 18th century, he precedes and announces the French revolution. He was the star of that great morn. To subscribe for his statue is a public duty." Apropos of the great French litterateur, Mr. Sarcey has been celebrating him in an enthusiastic lecture on his genius, at the Athenee, in Paris. The readings illustrating the lecture were given with refinement by Madam Ernst, widow of the celebrated violinist.

Mr. Barnum has ordered a series of wax figures illustrating "striking" incidents in the life of the editor of the Herald, who thus takes a place among the "moral monsters"

MR. W. MILLER SAYS:

PITTSBURGH, September 4, 1866.

Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa.—Gents: I think I am only doing the part of a good citizen when I testify to the great benefits received by me from the use of your Stomach Bitters during the last five years. Sojourning for a time in the oil regions, in 1861, I had a severe billious attack, which, in connection with dyspepsia, left me in a very weak condition. I was advised to try your Bitters, and, having procured a bottle, found that they worked like a charm upon me, eight pounds having been added to my weight in the space of one week, and new life seemed to have been infused into my system, so much so that I have been induced to use them every summer since that time. As a tonic, I think they are invaluable.

This summer, having had a similar attack, (and as before, much reduced,) although under the treatment of an A No. 1 physician, I was again obliged to have recourse to the old Bitters, and with the same good result, having gained six pounds within a few days. I purchased a half dozen bottles a few weeks since, and purpose to use them regularly as a tonic.

Wishing you every success, I remain,
Yours, gratefully,
WILLIAM MILLER.

PINUS ABIES, OR CANADA PINE.

There exudes from the inside bark of the White Pine, which grows abundantly in all the Eastern States and Canada a honey-like, sweet substance, highly imbued with that terebinthinate principle which has long been valued as a remedy, in various diseases of the human system, especially those of the mucuous tissues. Dr. G. W. Sweet, of Boston, has compounded from this material a medicine called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND; which has met with great favor in those maladies where the turpentines and balsams are supposed to be valuable.

PITTSBURGH LIGHTNING ROD WORKS.

MUNSON'S COPPER TUBULAR

LIGHTNING RODS.

With Spiral Flanges.

This Rod has the power to carry off as much electricity as twenty common iron rods; in other words is equal to a solid bar of iron thirty inches in circumference. It does not rust; it cannot get out of order. It has received the first premiums at very many State and District Fairs and Institutes. It was never beaten in any contest. It has been recommended by several hundred Professors in the best Schools and Colleges in the United States, as the best Rod ever invented. In this list we may name Philotus Dean, Professor of Natural Sciences, Pittsburgh High School; George Woods, President Western University of Pennsylvania, and I. C. Pershing, President Pittsburgh Female College.

Among the hundreds of buildings upon which this Rod was erected within the past year in this vicinity we may mention the Locomotive Works; Banner Cotton Mill; Allegheny Flouring Mills; First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny; Second Ward School House, Pittsburgh; City Poor House, Pittsburgh; St. Bridget's Church, Pittsburgh, &c., &c. In the surrounding country many of these Rods have been erected on residences or public buildings. It may be examined on the Lutheran Church at Johnstown; on the Disciples Church at New Castle; on Dr. Reed's residence, Hickory; on residences of Esquire Jancey, Lawrenceville; S. M. Fulton, McKeesport; Wm. Ewing, Frankfort Springs; S. P. & J. N. Large, Elizabethtown; Col. Wm. Miller, Fort Perry; P. Baker, Neville Island; J. Lockhart, Canonsburg; L. W. Lewis, Sharpsburg; J. F. Muller, Freedom, Friend Buxton, Bakerstown, &c., &c., &c. This Rod is adopted by all who want Lightning Rods wherever it is introduced, and in an experience of ten years we have never known an instance of damage to a building protected by it, while many instances occur every year of damage to buildings upon which iron rods have been erected; so noticeable has this fact become in communities where attention is called to the subject, that we are almost daily called on to take down the iron rods and erect the Munson Copper Rod.

Price, 30 cents per foot and $3 for points on each rod. Our workmen will go to any part of the country without extra charge.

HOW DO YOU MAKE YOUR TEA?—This is a question often asked by one lady friend of another, as they partake of the pleasant beverage, many thinking their friend has a peculiar way of making tea that gives it the pleasant flavor. But after hearing all about it, they very often exclaim: "Why that is just the way I make tea, but yours is far better!" Now, the true reason is in the original quality of the tea. Many persons think that when they have tasted Black tea once, or Green tea once, then they know all about tea; but they are about as near correct as if after seeing one yard of calico a person was to assert they knew all about calico; just so if a person is told the tea so much admired is Green tea, and they send to the store and get Green tea, they may get something that looks green, but being made to sell, no person could make a good cup of tea from a pound of it. The right plan for every one to pursue who wishes a good cup of tea is to purchase the tea only from a dealer in the article, who is a judge of tea, and who pays some attention to the wants of his customers. As I have been long connected with the tea trade, and having lately procured a large stock of all kinds, I am prepared to please every taste with tea. Some persons want a dark, strong tea, without regard to flavor. To such I sell my Black, at 60 cents per pound. Others want a clear tea, without regard to smell. To such I recommend my Young Hyson tea at $1,00, or Hyson Skin tea at $1,60, or Hyson Poko tea at $1,00. Others want finer flavored. To such I recommend my higher priced teas, of which I have a large assortment, bought lately at very low prices, and which I am now selling at least 20 cents per pound below the usual prices. Some persons like a pleasant, clear, high flavored Green tea. To such I recommend my Young Hyson at $1,60 cents per pound. This is the same tea I have been selling at $2,00, and which has pleased so many. Others like a stronger, although not so pleasant, Green tea. To such I recommend my $1,60 tea, formerly sold at $1,80. So, also, of Black tea, of which I have a large assortment, each of which has its peculiar characteristics, but which I cannot now take time to describe.

Japan Tea.—This is comparatively a new tea. It is only a few years since it was first introduced into the United States. But such is the peculiar rich and pleasant flavor of this tea, that it has already become quite a favorite tea with almost every one who has used it. Although rapidly rising in price, as it becomes better known, it is still much cheaper than Green tea, which it very much resembles.

Mixed tea has become a great favorite with many persons, especially in large families or hotels and boarding houses, where a number of tastes have to be pleased at the same drawing. From my large assortment I am prepared to mix to suit any taste or price. My No. 1 mixed at $1,60, one-half best Black, one-half best Young Hyson. No. 1 mixed at $1,20, one-half second best Black, one-half best Young Hyson; No. 2 mixed at $1,20, one-third Black, one-third Young Hyson, one-third Japan.

Below may be found a list of prices of my most popular Teas: Black Teas, Powchong strong rank flavor, 60 cents per lb; Black Teas, Powchong, mild flavor, $1,00 per lb; Black Teas Souchong, mild flavor, $1,00 per lb; Black Teas, Oolong, mild, pleasant flavor, $1,00 per pound; Black Teas, Oolong, extra fine flavor, $1,20 per lb; Black Teas, Oolong, best high color, smell and flavor, $1,40 per lb; Green Teas, Young Hyson, good, 90 cents per lb; Green Teas, Young Hyson, good, $1,00 per lb; Green Teas, Young Hyson, extra good, $1,10 per lb; Green Teas, Young Hyson, fine, $1,40 per lb; Green Teas, Young Hyson, extra fine, $1,60 per lb; Green Teas, Young Hyson, best clear high flavor, $1,80 per lb; Green Teas, Gunpowder, clear, high flavor, $1,80 per lb; Green Teas, Gunpowder, best clear, high flavor, $2,00 per lb; Green Teas, Imperial, best clear, high flavor, $2,00 per lb; Japan Teas, uncolored Japan leaf, $1,20 per lb; Japan Teas, Young Hyson Japan leaf, $1,40 per lb. From the above any one can select just what kind of tea they want, and have them put up in any quantity and forwarded by any of the Express Companies, who now carry goods at very low rates, and by doing so save TWENTY CENTS per pound in the price, besides getting a pure and clean article which exactly suits their taste.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1867.

Opening of the New Guild Hall.

On Tuesday evening, April 8th, the new house and hall lately purchased for the use of the Pittsburgh Church Guild was thrown open, and the reading room comfortably filled with an attentive and appreciative audience. The movement which has culminated in this success was inaugurated by a few humble but zealous churchmen nearly two years ago. At first but three were invited in council, then seven, and after much delay, made necessary by the division of the old Diocese, the movement for united effort in the cause of Christ was duly set before the young laymen of the Diocese, approved of by the Bishop and clergy, and made a glorious success of by united effort and zeal. The Bishop, who has taken very great interest in this work, made the opening address. He showed how men in classic times were banded together for mutual improvement and social concourse. How the very name of Guild, of Anglo-Saxon derivation, carried us back to the times of our ancestors, when, as a united mass, whether for the benefit of society, religion or trade, they united for strength. Some of the organizations were unions of democracy and monarchy against the aristocracy; others a combination of master workmen for the benefit of trade, whilst we, under the authority of the Church, adhering to the doctrines as set forth in the main creed, band together for increased effort in the cause of Christ.

This formation of Guilds marks an era in civilization. At first each and every man was—so to speak—a "jack of all trades." He relied wholly on himself for supplying his needs, and never called in the help of others, save to aggregate strength. Soon, some became skilled in separate branches, because of talent or necessity, and in the course of time master workmen took the place of skill-less apprentices, and man became an adept in his own branch. So we, uniting our master workmen, calling each one to his trade, stand ready to perform, by the help of God, the parochial, charitable, useful works of the Church.

It is a Catholic (general) movement, designed to teach us the propriety, aye, necessity, of uniting—as our name implies—in one grand, Churchly, Catholic whole, not simply as a Church, but as a society of her members, for church work, not as anti-parochial, but as extra parochial.

It is also designed to furnish aid to the young in search of true light and knowledge, and to afford a place where members from foreign parts may have an extended welcome, and lastly to encourage each other in establishing those institutions which by deeds show "Love to God and good will to man."

Mr. J. H. Bailey, on the part of the lay members, next made a few remarks: He showed the fallacy of considering that the single efforts of individuals would avail nothing. All that was needed was a combination for strength. No one would be willing to imagine himself of no importance. He might in some cases disclaim his influence, but he would by no means be willing to acknowledge that he had no power with his fellow men. This latter influence properly exercised would increase; these small efforts combined would make a mighty power, which, controlled and encouraged, would in due time yield its fruit. Some one might shrink from philanthropic acts for fear of the charge of conceit or hypocrisy, but here he could unite with others, and through persons duly delegated bring to bear his little power or his little means. Let each one lend his effort, no matter how weak; his means, no matter how small, and trust to God for the result.

The Rev. Dr. Snively was then called upon and remarked, that his case was that of a Methodist preacher who had a favorite sermon on this text: "Is there no balm in Gilead." Upon some great occasion he wished to make an impression, and for this purpose selected this sermon. A brother who preceded him gave as his text the very words selected; whereupon, rising with dismay, the poor unfortunate exclaimed. "Brother, you have stolen my Balm in Gilead." He went on to say:

It was the favorite superstition of the middle ages that evil spirits were exorcised by "bell, book and candle." The bell was rung, and the priest, holding the book and candle, drove the evil spirits to their own place. Modern life had translated this into truth. The calling of assemblies together, the reading, or having read and discussed, the problems of the day, and the light of knowledge truly exorcised the evil passions, and threw around the young and unprotected a chain of defence. Young men by hundreds wandered about, homeless amidst a thousand homes, liable to be enticed into the dens of luxury, or the still more destructive haunts of vice; with no place to rest themselves, no kind friend to take them by the hand and lead them in the true path. Here there was offered a refuge and protection which, by God's blessing, should refresh their minds and protect their souls. This enterprise, the fore-runner of great deeds, was not intended to intrude upon the work of the clergy, nor to effect radical changes by means of excitement, but through light, science and intelligence, the handmaids of religion, to purify the thoughts and desires and to prove that the "voice of nature is the voice of God." Go on, then, and let this association of master workmen erect a building imperishable, indestructible, resting upon our Saviour as the foundation and corner stone.

After a few words by Rev. Drs. Page and Preston, the meeting adjourned with prayer.

General Sherman in Camp.

The following extract from the Sanctuary, by Major Ward Nichols, formerly of the staff of Lieutenant General Sherman, gives a good picture of the General, as many of his followers have often seen him when called upon to visit headquarters at a late hour in the night:

The canvas cover, toward which the eyes of both were now eagerly directed, like the others on the line, which were the homes of the General's military family, was open from the front, so that the slightest movement of its inmate could be observed from the outside. They could now see that the General had risen from his cot. Thrusting his bare feet into a pair of slippers, he unrolled from a scrap of newspaper a cigar, and then stepped out from such protection as the tent offered from the falling dew into the open grounds. He looked up into the sky and then into the darkness in an absent, half-abstracted way.

The night air was chilly and the camp-fire had burned low. Gathering the ends of the charred rails together, he heaped them upon the still smouldering ashes, then, taking a camp stool from the tent, he sat down before the fire which had now kindled into a blaze; he lighted his cigar, and, with his elbows resting upon his knees, gazed earnestly into the bed of coals and flame. The bright light shone full into that iron face, marked with strong lines of thought and care.

That bold forehead seemed to project itself higher and broader among the short scrub growth of cross-grained hair. The light caught upon the unbuttoned wristband, taking a warmer glow from the red shirt hardly covering his bare neck.

A strange, grand figure was this sitting there, whose subtle brain at that moment was working out one of the great events in the fate of the nation.

The flames of the fire gathered new strength; flaring up into the night, revealing the interior of the tent in clear outline. It was not a gorgeous pavilion, carpeted with velvet and gold, hung with tapestry of silk and wool, furnished with luxurious couch and ease-inviting lounge, with liveried servants to anticipate its owner's wish, surrounded by triple sentinels to guard him from every harm.

There was a singular simplicity, almost a poverty, which marked the headquarters of the great captain.

The tent was a single piece of cotton cloth stretched from a ridge pole, where it was held firm to the ground on either side by wooden pegs. A cross-legged camp cot, a small camp chest, which is half covered by the uniform thrown upon it, makes up the scanty furniture. Besides a single candle, burned to its socket, there lies a volume of Waverly. A letter book answers for a writing-table; a valise is the General's only travelling baggage.

A number of maps, some opened, and all well worn, lie upon the blanket, which answers for a floor to the tent. There was very little pretension about this menage of the commander, who had millions at his disposal. There was no Roman Consul nor modern Emperor travelling in grand state, with pompous mein and brilliant retinue, but a citizen general of the Republic, not borrowing dignity from adventitious surroundings, but, in the simplicity of an unselfish devotion to his country, doing the work which lay before him.

There was a weird grandeur, supernaturally picturesque, in this intense stillness, this silent, motionless figure, of the chief of thousands of strong men, who slept while he sat watching the central figure in the grand picture. In the spectral firelight it seemed almost alone, for the line of tents receded in the darkness on either side. The moon now and then burst through the masses of heavy clouds, revealing the groups of tents on the distant hill side; horses and mules were crouched upon the ground; while behind them rose a forest of pines, filled with the mysterious shadows and graceful tree tops melting into the vail of blue.

AN EXCHANGE gives us the following item: While the iron-clad Miantonomah lay off Carthagena, a German gentleman came on board early one evening and inquired if the commander of a United States vessel had the authority to marry people and if it was legal in all countries? Upon being informed in the affirmative, he stated that he wished to be married by a Protestant, which was a difficult matter in Spain, and asked Capt. Beaumont if he would officiate. "Oh, yes," said the captain, and immediately all hands went to work dressing the wardroom with flags, hanging lanterns around on deck, making it as bright as day. At 8 P. M. boats were sent on shore to bring the victims off. As soon as they arrived alongside, the ship's band, stationed on top of the turret, struck up an American air. Blue lights, sky rockets, etc., were fired, and the couple stepped on board, and in a few moments were made one. They were a fine looking couple. After the ceremony and congratulations were over, a dance on the quarter deck and a supper finished the performance. This was an iron-clad wedding, and she was the bride of the Miantonomah.

SPEAKING of Nellie Dean, the heiress who married her father's coachman, a Richmond paper bitterly says: "If she had married a broker, he might be keeping accounts today in Sing Sing. If she had married a General, the world might be ringing with the name of her husband, alliteratively attached to the word Beast. If she had married a lawyer, his conscience might to-day be burdened with the innocent blood of a judicially murdered woman. If she had married a President, her husband might today be in Hades, and her own reputation disagreeably mixed up with abstracted linen, and china unaccounted for. An honest coachman is a better husband than a dishonest anybody."

Wonderful Ruins in Siam.

The Paris Review of Architecture publishes an account of some wonderful ruins at Ancor Viat, in the Kingdom of Siam, which have only lately become known to Europeans. The structures were the work of some unknown dynasty in remote antiquity. They cover a circle of ten or twelve leagues in diameter. M. Cesar Daly, who furnishes the Review with an account of the ruins, says: "The most celebrated monuments of ancient or modern Europe are mere barracks compared with these, while our palaces and vasilicas, the Vatican and the Coliseum, are little better than dog kennels in comparison." He continues:

I wished to ascend to a temple which appeared to be in a good state of preservation. There were eleven staircases, of I know not how many steps, which must be ascended to arrive at the first of the five peristyles. I commenced my upward journey at half-past six in the morning; at half-past seven I had scarcely entered the lower halls. Fearing that I might have to descend the steps in the heat of the day, I was compelled to shorten my visit. The walls are in every part sculptured and ornamented. The first effect which the sight of these monuments produced upon me was one of amazement. I am no amateur, to go into ecstacies over small things. The next morning I climbed the winding staircase of an immense tower, situated on an eminence. Arrived at the summit I enjoyed the sight of the ruins. There are in localities which I have not yet penetrated, palaces of a height and grandeur truly colossal. With a field glass I examined the details. Their architectural richness is unrivaled, and they extend into the territory of Chambodia, a distance of ten or twelve leagues. Picture to yourself how Paris would appear in ruins. A few rough stones, scattered over a diameter of two or three leagues, at the utmost. Here there are on the ground, and below its surface, marble already hewn in sufficient quantities to build, even as the giants have built here, all the cities of the universe. I have seen the leg of a statue, the great toe of which was eleven times the length of my hunting rifle. It is in marble like the rest; in fact there is no other stone near except the pieces of colored marble used for borders, and for the eyes of the statues. There are pedestals of steps reft of their statues, which are more lofty and larger than Saint Germain l'Auxerrois. Think of octagonal pyramids cut off at the middle, and all in marble.

COURT REPORTS.

District Court.

Before Hon. H. W. Williams.

Samuel C. Neel vs. Robert Morrow, administrator of John Neel, deceased. Action to recover for personal services rendered. The plaintiff was a nephew of Col. John Neel, of Mifflin township, and resided with him for a period of eighteen or nineteen years, and up to the date of his death. The defendant plead the statute limitations, which cut down the period to six years previous to the institution of the suit, in November, 1860. Defense claimed that plaintiff had been treated as a son—sent to school, properly clothed, etc., and not treated as a servant—and that standing in the relation of a member of the family, he was not entitled to recover for any services rendered; and further, that if entitled to anything, by way of compensation, he had already been paid all that his services were worth. The testimony indicated that after the plaintiff became of age, he talked about leaving, and doing something for himself; that Col. Neel induced him to stay, telling him that he would "pay him well," although no specific amount was named. The defendant remained several years longer, managing the place, and attending to most of the business. He again talked of leaving, when Col. Neel assured him that he could not get along without him, and that he would "pay him as much as he could get anywhere else." This induced the plaintiff to remain until Col. N.'s death, although the amount of wages had not been fixed. Jury out.

Harriet E. Dunn vs. Robert Morrow, administrator of John Neel, deceased. On trial. The action in this case is similar to that in the one above noted, the plaintiff claiming for personal services during her residence with the decedent.

Oyer and Terminer.

Before Hon. James P. Sterrett.

This Court met Wednesday, at the usual time, ten o'clock, and proceeded with jury trials.

THE STEWARTSTOWN OUTRAGE CASE.

In the case of Philip Heist, indicted for assault and battery with intent to rape Mrs. Sarah S. Smith, the jury returned a verdict of "guilty of assault and battery."

ASSAULT AND BATTERY ABOUT APPLES.

Arthur Little was arraigned to answer a charge of assault and battery, preferred in September last by Margaret Dahlem. A dispute occurred about some apples which defendant insisted upon taking, and did take, notwithstanding the claim of the prosecutrix to the property. The violence offered on the occasion was the subject of indictment. A clear case was made out by the prosecution, and the main witness for the defense, Michael McAboy, prevaricated to such an extent that his testimony was discredited. The jury convicted and the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars and to five days imprisonment in the county jail.

RESULT OF PREVARICATION.

Arthur Little, defendant in the above case, before sentenced, was asked what he had to say, and went on to detail the circumstances of the case, prevaricating to even a greater extent than his main witness, Mr. M'Aboy, had done, as to the difficulty about the apples, the taking of which by him had been resisted by Mrs. Dahlem. Impressed with the fact that both had concealed the truth about the matter, Judge Sterrett required Little and M'Aboy to give bail in the sum of three hundred dollars each to answer a charge of larceny.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

William J. Clark was arraigned upon an indictment charging that, on the night of the 26th of December, 1866, he assaulted on the highway and robbed John Eisengart of forty-five dollars in notes and some ten dollars in fractional currency. The prosecutor, Eisengart, testified that he resided in Sharpsburg. On the night in question, between ten and eleven o'clock, he was returning home from Rahm's tavern in company with Mr. Noe, and after they had gone a short distance from the tavern two men passed them. Went with Noe as far as his house, and just after he had passed Noe's door, he (witness) was seized from behind, as if in a vice; just at the moment a light came from a window opposite, and he recognized the defendant as the person having hold of him, with his hand in his pocket, from which the money was taken. The occurrence took place about forty steps from where witness lived. There was another man present besides defendant; asked defendant what he was doing, when they both ran away. After they had gone he missed his money, which he remembered having but a short time before.

Mr. Swartzweider, of counsel for the defense, in opening, stated they would not rely so much upon any positive proof they might offer, as upon the failure of the Commonwealth to make out a clear case of identity, the real question involved. He maintained that the evidence of identity was by no means conclusive. The prosecutor states he recognized the accused by a flash of light from an opposite window, but was unable to describe his clothing.

A strong fact in the case was brought out by the defense on cross-examination, viz: that one Hugh Smith was arrested for the robbery, and confessed his guilt, implicating Clark, by stating that they were in company. Smith paid back half the money. The jury found a verdict of "not guilty," and the defendant, who had been under bail, was discharged.

ANOTHER ROBBERY CASE.

William Smith was placed on trial for knocking down and robbing Adolph Kaylor, a soldier at the Allegheny Arsenal, of ten dollars, in the Fifth ward, on the night of the 20th of February last. The case was on trial at adjournment.

Common Pleas Court.

Before Hon. Thomas Mellon.

Andrews & Armstrong vs John Knowlder. Before reported. The jury failed to agree and were discharged.

D. W. Lloyd vs. Frazier & Brothers. Plaintiff is a plasterer and contracted with the defendants, who are master builders, for the plastering of a large dwelling house in Allegheny. Defendants gave two notes, in payment—one for $402,65, and another for $444,08. After the work had been completed the defendants alleged that it had been so badly done that the damages to the building amounted to more than the claim, and refused to pay the notes. Suits are brought on each note, and the cases tried together. On trial.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette,
Wednesday, April 10, 1867.

The New York stock quotations to-day as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 136⅝; Eighty-one bonds, 109; Five Twenties, old, 108⅝; do, 1864, 107¾; Five Twenties, 1865, 107¼; Ten Forties, 97¾; Seven Thirties, 105⅝. Michigan Southern Railroad, 67¾; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 89¼; Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago, 90⅛; Erie, 54⅝; Chicago and Rock Island, 89¼; Chicago and Northwestern, 31½; do preferred, 59⅛; New York Central, 99⅝; Reading, 99⅛.

The gold market opened at a decline from the closing quotations of last night, 134⅛, but soon rallied to 136⅝, and closed strong at 136⅜. Government bonds all suffered a decline of ⅛ to ½ per cent., and Five-Twenties of 1862, declined ¼ on the news of the London quotations; at the close, there prevailed a better feeling. Stocks are much depressed, but under heavy purchases closed firmer. North Western, common, and Fort Wayne were very weak on unfavorable reports going the round in the money articles of leading journals. Local stocks are dull, though prices are yet maintained.

James T. Brady & Co. report government bonds in New York to-day, as follows:

Gold	135⅝
U. S. Sixes 1881	109
do 5-20, 1862	109⅝
do 5-20, 1864	107¾
do 5-20, 1865	107¾
do 10-40, new	107¼
August, 7-30s	106
June, 7-30s	105½
July, 7-30s	105½
Dec. Compounds, 1864	115⅝

Later in the day, 3 o'clock, telegram from Philadelphia quoted gold at 137⅛@137⅜.

—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that banks are not to deduct from their profits the amount of tax paid the State and municipal authorities on the shares of the stockholders, but are required to include that amount in estimating the tax on their dividends and added surplus. It is proper that stockholders should be apprised of this decision, that they may include their proportion of the amount thus paid by the banks for them in their estimate of the distinction to which they are entitled in making their statements of taxable income.

—General trade has been showing some little improvement during the past few days. The mild, genial weather has brought out hosts of buyers and afforded holders of large stocks of goods an opportunity of ascertaining the views of their customers as to their disposition to buy and the prices they are willing to give. It is astonishing to find, now that buyers and sellers have come together, what a spirit of concession prevails between the two classes. The one, recognizing the losses already suffered by the large dealers in the natural shrinkage which everything has undergone, and the other, the equally pertinent fact that the people have been consuming and will continue to consume much less than they did in the "war times," when everybody was making money, have come to a mutual understanding which cannot fail to give to business the impetus it has so long needed.—Phila. Press.

—There was considerable talk in financial and mercantile circles to-day concerning the failure of Williams, Young & Kass, wholesale grocers. For some time past it was known that the firm was in difficulties but it was generally believed that they would weather the storm and come out all right. Mr. Young informs us that the liabilities of the firm are about $100,000, and the assets foot up in the neighborhood of $85,000. They have made an assignment to H. F. Eames, H. W. Hinsdale and Wm. Stewart, and the Chicago creditors have granted the firm, collectively and individually, an unconditional release. During the war the house made comparatively little money, and the losses entailed during the past two years by the steady depreciation in the value of goods, and the dullness of trade, completely swept away all the capital of the firm.—Chicago Tribune.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette,
Wednesday, April 10, 1867.

There is apparently less excitement manifested in the general markets, though in most commodities a very firm feeling still exists, especially in Flour and Grain, and prices are well sustained.

GRAIN—Wheat is in limited supply, and firm, but it is impossible to give accurate quotations in the absence of sales. Corn is firm and in demand, and $1 is now offered for prime Yellow for shipment. Rye is in demand, with sales reported at $1,50, and but little offering. Prime Spring Barley may be quoted at $1,15 to $1,20. Oats firm and higher—sales in elevator, at 60—may be quoted at 63 to 65, in a retail way.

FLOUR—Is firm, with a steady local demand, but without quotable change. We continue to quote at $14 to $14,50 for Spring Wheat; $15 to $16 for Winter Wheat, and $17 to $18 for fancy brands. Rye Flour, $8,50.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is steady, with regular jobbing sales at 10 to 10¼ for Shoulders; 11¾ to 12 for Ribbed Sides, and 15¾ to 16 for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard, 13 to 13¼, and Mess Pork, $23,50.

SEEDS—Cloverseed is in fair demand and firm, with sales at $11,50 to $12. Timothy Seed is quiet and unchanged—$3 to $3,25. Flaxseed is scarce and in demand, though, so far as we can learn, there are but few buyers above $2,85.

POTATOES—The demand is fully equal to the supply, and the market is firm with regular sales of prime Peach Blows in store at 95c to $1—mostly at 95c.

GREEN APPLES—Scarce and in demand; sales of good to choice, in store, at $5 to $6 per bbl.

ASHES—Firm and Pearls are advancing. Sale of 10 tons at 13¼; and 25 tons common Soda Ash at 5¼. Refined Soda Ash is selling at 5¾, and Pots, 8¼.

BUTTER—Prime Roll is steady with a demand equal to the supply but unchanged. We continue to quote at 35c to 40c. Common Butter is dull.

EGGS—In demand at 23c.

OIL—Lard Oil is in fair demand and firm at $1,10 for No. 1, and 90c for No. 2.

PIG LEAD—Sale of 300 pigs at 10¾.

LIME—Sales of white at $2 per bbl.

HAY—Prime Timothy is in fair demand, and if anything, a shade higher, a sale having been made in store to-day at $28, which is considered a little above the market.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

Office of the Pittsburgh Gazette,
Wednesday, April 10, 1867.

CRUDE—The market is quiet but steady, and prices, although unchanged, are well sustained—6¼ to 6¾, on spot, as well as all this month, and 7 to 7¼ for future delivery. Sale of 1300 bbls for all this month, seller's option, at 6⅝; 5000 same delivery, at 6¾; 50 bbls, on spot, at 7c, bbls returned; and 110 bbls "Smith's Ferry" (40 to 47 gravity) at 6¼. A telegram from Oil City to-day reported oil firm at $2,30 at that point, which is an advance. The arrivals were larger to-day, and it is probable that they will continue so for some days to come.

REFINED—There was rather more inquiry for bonded oil to-day, and while a little firmer feeling was apparent, prices are not any better. Sale of 500 bbls standard white for May at 27; 1000 for same month, at same price; 500 for July, and 500 for August, both at 28; 500 for first half of May at 27½; 500 prime light straw to white, for April, at 25¾—all delivered in Philadelphia, and 1000 bbls standard white, for April, at 21¾, at works. It was reported that slightly improved prices had been offered for late months. Free oil is quiet and unchanged.

—Since the above was put in type, we have a sale of 3000 bbls reported for April, after the 20th, at 6¾.

ARRIVALS—The following arrivals of oil were reported to-day:

Gold is active and excited under the European rumors, which have not been confirmed. The bull interest is in the ascendant. Government sold $300,000. Sterling is firmer, but unsettled from the same cause, and it is next to an impossibility to negotiate Cotton bills, in consequence of a decline in Liverpool and the rumored failures there, that of Victor Pontz, of Liverpool, as reported per cable, the alleged fall of cotton to 11½ pence in Liverpool is unconfirmed. Bankers intend generally to cover their own bills with gold. Governments are firm but quiet. RIVER NEWS.

The river varied but little, either way, during the twenty-four hours ending last evening, at which time the Allegheny marks indicated about ten and a half feet. As considerable rain is reported east of here, there will doubtless be another rise in both the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers. The weather yesterday was cloudy and close, with rain in the afternoon, and prospects of more during the night. Business is tolerably active at the landing, though there are entirely too many boats for all the freight that is offering.

The Echo left for Oil City last evening with a fair trip, and the Ida Rees and Urilda are due here to-day and to-night.

The river was at a stand at Oil City yesterday, with five and a half feet in the channel.

United States Marshal Rowley advertises the steamer Forest City for sale on the 20th of April. She is a neat and substantial little craft, and with some repairing and repainting, would make a first rate low-water boat.

We understand that there was "big dinner" on the Dubuque yesterday, at which Capt. Gray, Gen. Wm. A. Caldwell and other prominent individuals participated. The Dubuque is, without doubt, one of the most complete, substantial and beautiful steamers ever built at this point, and she will create considerable of a sensation when she reaches the place after which she is named.

The America, from Nashville, is the only transient arrival we have to report. She had a very fair trip. The R. C. Gray, from Louisville, is among the first boats due.

The Argosy cleared for Cincinnati with a good freight list and quite a number of passengers. The Maggie Hays turned over what freight she had to the Argosy. The Dubuque left for the Upper Mississippi early in the afternoon with a splendid trip. She had about all the freight she could take, and was crowded with passengers. The Dubuque will be quite an acquisition to the Northern Line Packet Company.

The Maggie Hays, we understand, has withdrawn from the Cincinnati packet trade for the present. Perhaps Capt. Henderson intends to "fix up" for the low water season, which is rapidly approaching.

It is reported that something about the engines of the Great Republic gave way the first night out from New Orleans, and we are inclined to place credence in the report, as otherwise, she would doubtless have been at St. Louis before this. Possibly the telegraph may throw some light on the matter.

The Lorena, Capt. Sam Shuman, is filling up steadily for St. Louis, and will be ready to leave to-morrow or next day. The Importer, Capt. Noss, will be in turn after the Lorena.

The Ida Rees, Capt. Joe Brown, is announced for Cincinnati and Louisville forthwith. The Ida Rees is a staunch and reliable boat, and Capt. Brown is a very popular officer. The Leonora, Capt. Davis, is up for Nashville.

The Columbia, Capt. G. W. Reed, is now in turn for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi, and will be the first boat out for those points. She will doubtless get a big trip.

The Glendale, Capt. Hare, is the "Independent" packet for St. Louis, and will soon be ready to take her departure. Capt. Jas. Mellon still retains charge of the office.

The Silver Lake, Capt. Todd, leaves to-day without fail for the Idaho gold regions, and all points on the Upper Missouri. Passengers and shippers should bear this fact in mind.

Fred. Douglas, the celebrated colored orator, was a passenger on the Parkersburg packet Grey Eagle, yesterday.

The Ezra Porter was advertised to leave Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Tuesday. The towboat Sam Brown, en route from Saint Louis, was at Cairo on Monday with three barges of iron ore in tow. The Julia No. 2, on her way from Nashville to Cincinnati, was at Evansville the same day. The Bellevernon, en route from Pittsburgh to Saint Louis, left Cincinnati on Monday.

The Richmond created considerable excitement at Evansville on her arrival there. It is said she was visited by twenty thousand people while she laid there, taking on 800 sacks of corn.

The New Orleans Times of Friday last, speaking of the Great Republic, says: Notwithstanding the situation, large crowds of citizens and others were on the landing to see the Great Republic off, and when approaching the hour of 5 o'clock, every available spot on the landing and freight piles in front of that steamer were occupied by the visitors, and when 5 o'clock came it was discovered by the engineer that one of her heaters was out of order and had to be attended to, which necessarily detained the boat until after dark. There were hundreds who manifested the desire to see her off, and were of course, disappointed; but accidents can not be gotten rid of, and on the next trip of the Great Republic Captain W. B. Donaldson will give his many friends a sight at his magnificent steamer. The Republic's cabins was full of through passengers and she had to refuse many applicants who expressed a desire to travel on so fine a boat.

Capt. Abner Baird, of the J. D. Perry, has been awarded $118,000 by the United States Government, in payment for the steamers Admiral and Sovereign which were taken during the war for Government purposes.

Capt. Dave Hukill and Mr. Low, of Memphis, have bought one half the steamer Mary Swan, at the rate of $18,000 for the whole boat. Capt. Hukill will command her, and Bob Majors will go in the office. The Swan will continue in the Memphis and Evansville trade.

Capt. James Chenowith, late of the Darlington, assumed command of the Armadillo at Cincinnati on Monday, Captain D. H. Swaney taking charge of the office. The Armadillo will extend her trip to Vicksburg, and will receive freight for all intermediate points on the Ohio and Mississippi.

A St. Louis telegram, under date of Monday, says:

River rising slowly. There is a rise of two or three feet coming down the Missouri. Shipments to New Orleans are likely to be larger this week than last. Freight is scarce for the Arkansas, and four boats want loads here. There is no boat here loading for the Ohio. In addition to a number of steamers loading for the mountains, two are loading with Government freight, under the McPherson contract. Tonnage for the mountains is yet apparently in excess. The new steamer Shreve, furnished with the Decatur's old machinery, is proving to be fast. She is now entirely owned by Walker R. Carter & Sons, and goes this week to Omaha.

The St. Louis Democrat, of Monday, says: Two more boats left on Saturday for the mountains. The St. Johns, Captain Mike Ohlman, begins to load this morning with government freight for the Upper Missouri, under the McPherson contract, and will leave on Wednesday. Among the latest mining news on the Upper Missouri, is the discovery of very rich and extensive copper deposits in the valley of the Muscle-shell, about sixty-five miles from Helena, Montana. This is of great interest to boatmen, as will be seen from the following, written by one of our correspondents: "Men who formerly worked in the celebrated Copperopolis lode of California, say that these deposits, judging from appearance, are the richest they ever knew. This is an item of no small importance to our citizens, as the ore will most likely be smelted in St. Louis. If steamboatmen will be reasonable in their freight charges, this new field of wealth will be immediately available; and as they generally return light, I think there is no doubt but their figures will encourage its speedy development. There is a good hard road to the mouth of the Muscle-shell, eighty-five miles, the place of shipment, which is four hundred miles below Fort Benton, as the river runs." We learn also, that a large amount of corn will be shipped this year to St. Louis from points west of St. Joseph.
